

LAWYER'S ASSISTANT SCHOOL OF DALLAS TRAINING STUDENTS FOR SIZZLING CAREERS

Dallas, Texas – March 2007 – Lawyer's Assistant School of Dallas ("LASD") is training Students to enter the workforce as Legal Secretaries – a career that still sizzles!

In a recent article, The Dallas Morning News cited Legal Secretaries as a "...hot job for '07..." Additionally the article supported the need of Legal Secretaries by stating, "...legal support (positions) are expected to continue to grow..." As current career Legal Secretaries are approaching retirement, LASD is seeking to fill those positions with their graduates.

LASD has produced seventeen (17) graduates from the Legal Secretary program. The inaugural graduating classes completed their classes in December 2006, with these graduates employed at Dallas law firms such as Winstead, McKoolSmith, Goins Underkoffler, The Coles Firm, and Walker & Doepfner.

The Texas Workforce Commission for Career Schools and Colleges licenses LASD. Additionally they are the only Legal Secretary program in Texas that is accredited by the National Association of Legal Professionals. Students attend six hundred-sixty (660) hours of classes in substantive legal subjects, hands-on technology, legal and advanced commercial software, typing and dictation, legal document preparation, ethics, and professional/career development.

There are three (3) classes currently in session: two (2) during the day and one (1) in the evening. Upcoming daytime classes are scheduled to begin on April 24th and June 19th. An evening class is also scheduled to begin on April 24th. Each class has a maximum of twelve (12) students, allowing for one-on-one instructor attention.

LASD is located in the Plaza of the Americas complex, adjacent to DART's Pearl Street Station. Classes are offered during the day and evening, with a year-round schedule. Their faculty and advisory board consist of working attorneys, paralegals, legal secretaries, and human resource personnel and technology trainers from various law firms.
